Cultivate Desire

By Dr. Robert Schuller (Sr. Pastor of the Crystal Cathedral and Hour of Power ministries)

"Faith in deeper water is wanting something so badly that someday, somehow, somewhere, sometime, you know you shall have it. More faith is shattered by lack of desire than by real doubt.

No one will ever believe that he can move a mountain unless he really wants that mountain to move. Almost anything can be accomplished by the person who really wants to succeed. The old adage is so true: if there's a will, there's a way.

We believe what we want to believe!

Believing is wanting!

Apply this definition of faith to your project and your dreams. To begin with, you must know what you want. Not a few people fail because they have neglected to visualize in detail what they were trying to achieve. If you have a confused and muddled picture of what you are going after, do not be surprised if you fail. Therefore, an early step in mountain-moving faith is forming a detailed mental picture of your dream.

As the sharp details of your dream come into clear mental focus, you will find your enthusiasm mounting to an ever higher pitch.

If you want your dream badly enough, you will plan, organize, reorganize, and work, until you get what you want. Great desire marshals great determination. And success awaits the person who believes in "never say never." You never really fail until you stop wanting. Faith is wanting something with all your heart!"
